"I have come to believe that our lives can be turned in a different direction, our minds adopt a different way of thinking, by some significant, though small event."

— Howard Zinn

"Our ambitions must be broad enough to include the aspirations and needs of others, for their sakes and for our own."

— César Chávez

The Latin word opportunitatem (opportunity) began usage in the late 14th century with its principal meaning being “fitness, suitableness, favorable time.” Derived in part from the phrase ob portum veniens “coming toward a port,” it was a reference to the wind propelling ob “to, toward” + portus “harbor.” As such, this land that many of us refer to as the United States of America, has often been called the “Land of Opportunity.” So as our society is increasing in complexities and change continues occurring at breakneck speeds, how is the wind pushing us toward justice in ways that have eluded us in prior generations? What gains can be realized from the intersection of opportunity and the 21st century? How might contemporary world realities (and demands) provide a new backdrop for authentic conversations and earnest gains in diversity, inclusion, reconciliation, and equity?

Over the last year, the Staff of OMA has been inspired to leverage these new opportunities. This “wind blowing toward harbor” has informed how we’ve educated, addressed, challenged, and built partnerships around the systemic issues of oppression and marginalization. It’s informed how we’ve advised individuals, collaborated with departments, and supported community. We endeavored to use the lens of the arts to challenge our own community and showcase the powerful union of artistic discipline and cultural discourse. How powerful a role artists and designers hold in shaping public interaction, challenging assumptions and beliefs, and crafting a responsible present! That role can serve to strengthen the anchor of inclusive participation or preserve systems and models of exclusion. What an incredible opportunity.

OMA has been most fortunate to partner with a host of individuals and organizations committed to seizing opportunities AND creating new ones. Our work this year has strengthened partnerships with long standing friends while forging new relationships that hold the seeds of promise for years to come. We wish to thank those who have publically or privately, with or without acknowledgement, corporately or individually advanced RISD’s demonstration of multiculturalism. OMA continues to be inspired by the passion and devotion that so many display toward ensuring that our campus community uses its collective opportunity to educate this generation of artists, and to design a new reality based in dignity and opportunity for all.

Respectfully,

Tony Johnson

FROM THE DIRECTOR
"RISD is committed to a multi-culturally and philosophically diverse environment that is respectful of all the members of its community: students, faculty, curators, and staff."

— RISD Mission Statement

People from all backgrounds bring value to the art and human conversations held at RISD. The Office of Multicultural Affairs (OMA) assists the RISD community at-large in shaping a culturally inclusive and supportive environment that enables all its members the opportunity to fully contribute to and benefit from the total RISD experience. OMA coordinates enriching opportunities for cultural awareness, dialogue, and interaction. The office services the needs of the total RISD community while providing specific support to RISD’s artists of color, those from international backgrounds, and those dedicated to an inclusive community.

As a resource for RISD’s minority populations, OMA advises students on social, cultural, and personal matters, financial aid issues, and academic procedures. OMA works closely with faculty members, staff, and administrators to ensure every opportunity for minority populations to realize their academic goals and personal growth. OMA assists in student development and leadership through supporting and advising campus cultural groups on planning events, activities, lectures, and similar community-building programs.
The Third World Program is a concept that was initiated during the tumultuous 1960’s as with most ethnic oriented programs across the country. The few third world students at RISD during that time saw the need to develop a viable program that would not only help finance the education of future third world students: of African, Asian, and South American ancestry, but provide the necessary counseling service, both academic and personal, that was also lacking. RISD has understood the need for such a program and has aided its development along with federal assistance.

— John Torres - Director, Third World Program 1968 – 73

NARRATIVE SUMMARY:

While currently named The Office of Multicultural Affairs, RISD’s first department dedicated to assuring access, support, and other assistance to minority students was established in 1968 as the Third World Program. While the Office has adjusted its name over the years, its mission and contribution have remained firm. Helping RISD achieve its goal of attracting and developing the most promising artists and designers has been the core of this office’s work.

Its specific historical charge of assisting students of color and international students has served to provide a more inclusive environment for these students and has equally enhanced the educational and social experiences of the RISD commonwealth. Since the 1960’s, five administrators have led the office with titles ranging from Dean to Coordinator to Director. OMA is indebted to the dedication, commitment, and contributions of these administrators as they have championed, advocated for, and supported the needs of our various student populations. Their service helped guide the college toward realizing an inclusive and supportive environment where all can contribute to and benefit from the uniqueness of RISD.
1968 - 1976
RISD initiates the Third World Program with three positions: Dean (John Torres), Assistant Dean (Ann Souza), and Secretary. The program’s mission focuses on disadvantaged students. Program responsibilities include: recruitment, admissions evaluations & admittance in conjunction with the Admissions Office, financial aid distribution, advising (on academic, personal, social, financial matters), and fundraising.

1976 - 1977
The Third World Program folds due to resignation of the program Dean.

1977-1979
The Minority Affairs Office is created as a one-person office reporting to the Dean of Students. Dorothy Ford assumes this position as Secretary/Assistant to the Associate Dean of Students.

1979 – 1991
The Minority Affairs Office expanded responsibilities and reports to VP for Student Affairs.

1992
The Minority Affairs Office becomes the Office of Multicultural Affairs (OMA) and assumes responsibility for supporting and advising minority and international student populations including Immigration and Naturalization Service (INS) processing. Position title changes to Coordinator of Multicultural Affairs and reports to Director of Student Development and Counseling Services. Office housed in College Building.

1999
The Office of International Programs is created.

2000
OMA Coordinator, Dorothy Ford, retires after 27 years of service to RISD and campus diversity.

2002
OMA moves from Carr House to Ewing House. Catalyst Arts (an arts civic engagement program) formally joins RISD and operates out of OMA.

2006
RISD Multicultural Center and Multicultural Gallery established in Ewing House. OMA and the Office of International Programs assume oversight and management for Ewing Multicultural Center.

2008
Multicultural Gallery officially named Yellow House Gallery.

2004
First Annual Diversity Awards program conducted.

2005
Tony Johnson (’93 Sculp) becomes OMA’s second director.

2010
From the 1999 RISD Diversity Committee Report, OMA is upgraded to a department housed in Carr House with position upgrade to Director. Mr. Deba Patniak becomes OMA’s first Director.

2009
The Office of International Programs is created. OMA resumes responsibility for supporting and advising minority students.
Tony Johnson

Tony Johnson is the Director of Multicultural Affairs at Rhode Island School of Design. In this role, he participates in constructing and implementing the college’s efforts toward a multicultural and philosophically diverse environment that is respectful of all its members; Tony works to ensure a college campus that is enriched through experiencing and understanding society through strategic use of the range of cultures the college represents and building strong bridges to Rhode Island’s greater community.

Tony is a 1993 RISD Sculpture alumnus. Prior to his current role, he held a variety of positions including co-founding an arts consultant business, conducting art design and professional development training for MetLife Insurance, and serving as RISD’s first admissions officer dedicated to diversity enrollment.

In addition to his work with art institutions, he is a board member of the Rhode Island Black Heritage Society, a juror on The Rhode Island Foundations’ First Generation Scholarship Committee, and a member of the Multicultural Affairs Think Tank through the New England Resource Center for Higher Education (UMass/Boston).

Deborah Kanston

Deborah Kanston is the Administrative Coordinator of Multicultural Affairs at Rhode Island School of Design. She is responsible for various office administration functions, supervision of student workers and the development and structure of the office for continued and greater impact. She assists the Director in the assessment and design of office programs, events, and activities and works to maintain and increase the office’s presence on campus and throughout the Rhode Island community.

Deborah holds a Bachelor’s degree in accounting/financial services management and graduated from Johnson & Wales University in 1998. She worked in NJ, where she is originally from, as a corporate accountant for a utility company and as a staff accountant at the corporate headquarters of Bed, Bath & Beyond.

Outside of her work here at RISD, she is a Deacon at the Cathedral of Life Christian Assembly in Providence, RI, a member and past president of the graduate chapter of her sorority, Alpha Kappa Alpha, and a graduate student in Educational Ministries at Gordon-Conwell Theological Seminary, Center for Urban Ministerial Education in Roxbury, MA.

“Very nice, I was happy to participate.”

“I really enjoyed this event but felt that more students should have been invited to it.”

“I thought it was an great event. There are too few times we can get together and just chat. Everyone seems to always be on ‘fast forward’. It is good to stop and enjoy a pleasant social opportunity.”

“The event was lovely and self-fulfilling. Thank you for a wonderful experience.”

“It was a lovely gathering. Thank you for including me. We need more such organized, informal platforms. This was your best event ever! Thanks!”

“Very well done. Enjoyed it greatly!”

“Beautiful event that was so very thoughtful. It was nice to get away from the office and socialize for a while”

“Great idea!”

“Great event, great energy in the room. So nice to have a way to bring staff, admin, faculty and students together to mix and chat in a casual way.”

I am familiar with the services and programs offered by OMA:
I learned something new about...

“Learned that the initial idea came from a student wishing to go to a similar event at Brown.”

“Sexual abuse of girls in single parent homes.”

“If a woman’s maternal instinct insists that fulfillment can only be found through childbearing and childrearing.”

“Many of my fellow RISD community members, and RISD offerings”

“Myths of motherhood and then the actual facts.”

“Can’t say that I honestly learned anything new but still enjoyed the camaraderie.”

“Employees at RISD and students that I hadn’t met previously.”

“My co-workers and other employees.”

“One of my colleagues’ life experiences.”

“A colleague’s obligations to family.”

“Maternal instincts! And, more importantly, how many wonderful women work at RISD.”

“Certain difficulties to expect in the future should I choose to have children and remain in the art world.”

“Students. It’s interesting that there were hardly any students at the tea social (and also at the "Who Does She Think She Is" screening last night). I think it’s sad and unfortunate that students are so uninterested in discussion about women (so it seems) meanwhile, most of them are women.”
“I thought it was an excellent event. I don’t even know what OMA stands for??! The tea/luncheon was very nice and the envelopes with conversation-starter facts were great! I spoke at length with about 3 other women at the event and spoke with students later. I hope you continue to have events like this one.”

“It was a wonderful event and I was very happy to have been part of it! Thank you!”

“I was only there for about a half an hour, but I think conversation needed to be more heavily facilitated because I did talk to a few other students that were involved in being more active in the community, and raising general awareness. However, I didn’t talk that much about “womanhood” or decisions about having children. Which is ok. Maybe part of the issue is how young many of us students are. Maybe we aren’t really ready for the discussion of children yet? I’m not sure. I thought the movie was really terrific though in informing about the pressures and challenges of motherhood. I think no matter what career path it is always critical…”

“Thanks for inviting me and for all the effort that went into the event. It was great!”

Tony Johnson was invited to facilitate a diversity workshop to the 2009-2010 Resident Assistant staff. The workshop session included discussion on the various communities at RISD. The session explored ways to support and build bridges between minority, majority, and marginalized communities at RISD. The group dialogued on the role(s) we each play in shaping an inclusive campus.

Building Community - Diversity And Cultural Fluency Training
September 11, 2009
Tony Johnson was invited to present this session as part of the Office of International Programs’ International Student Orientation. This session was presented to those new members of our community, primarily international and cultural exchange students, who were adjusting to life at RISD.

Foundations of Management Program
September 22, 2009
Tony Johnson attended this five session program exploring the challenges, strengths, and successes of quality management. The program was conducted at Bryant University.

An Evening with the Presidents
November 9, 2009
Deborah Kanston attended this event hosted by African-American Women in Higher Education (AAWHE). It was an opportunity to learn from the highest level of experience in the academy as four women of color, who are presidents of colleges in the New England area, shared their stories. The event was held at Bentley University.
RISD Learns Course
November 11, 2009
Deborah Kanston attended the “How to Conduct Effective Meetings” workshop which explored the causes of unproductive meetings, showed the top reasons that meetings fail, and demonstrated a model for preparing, planning, organizing, conducting and closing a meeting.

National Association of Student Personnel Administrators (NASPA)
December 10-13, 2009
Tony Johnson attended this bi-annual conference in Dallas, TX. The 2009 conference focused on trends, challenges, best practices, and key players in diversity within U.S. higher education institutions.

Korean Student Identity Workshop
March 10 & 17 - 2010
Tony Johnson & Claudia Ford, Director of the Office of International Programs at RISD, invited Aleta Bok Johnson to conduct workshops for staff and faculty. These workshops were designed to support staff and faculty as they understand the context through which the campus’ pan-Asian students attend RISD. The session specifically addressed Korean national student identity development, education achievement, American acculturation, social norms and social systems.

Administrative Professional Development Program
April 28; May 5; May 12, 2010
Deborah Kanston attended this all-day, three session program exploring effective communication, personal image, customer service, project management, time management, and goal setting. The program was given by RI Higher Education Training Consortium and held at Bryant University.

Student Affairs Office - Transfer Student Orientation Leader Training
June 16, 2010
Tony Johnson was invited to facilitate a diversity discussion with the 2010 orientation leaders for summer transfer students. The discussion covered ways to promote and sustain an inclusive and positive experience for transfer students.

Office of Residence Life - Resident Assistant Training
June 23, 2010
Tony Johnson was invited to facilitate a diversity workshop to the 2010 summer Resident Assistant staff. The workshop session used the Game of Oppression as a tool to discuss difficult dialogues on often unaddressed topics dealing with sameness, difference, and otherness.
In our continued effort to best understand and contextualize how RISD students engage in and perceive campus diversity, OMA annually conducts its campus climate survey. The survey, now in its fifth year, seeks to assess the perceptions and experiences of two RISD student cohorts: first year and graduating students. The survey results are provided here:

SURVEY CONTEXT

First year students
All first year students were invited to participate in the survey. A total of 690 surveys were distributed and 120 students responded to the survey. This group was targeted in hopes that the information provided would give insight on student experiences and that the data might be compared to the results of their graduating campus climate survey in 3-4 years. First year students targeted and surveyed include freshman and transfer undergraduate students as well as graduate students currently ending their first year of full-time studies at RISD. Those invited to participate include students from domestic and international populations as well as those from minority and majority backgrounds. All students regardless of their race / ethnic heritage were invited to participate in the survey. To this end, the survey did not seek the participant’s race / ethnic heritage or name.

Graduating Students
All graduating RISD students were invited to participate. A total of 614 surveys were distributed and 119 students responded to the survey. This group was chosen in hopes that the information provided would be as candid and honest as possible without student concern for retribution or negative impact. Likewise, this group represents the student population who, in theory, would have had the most social, academic, and experiential opportunities with RISD. Those invited to participate include undergraduate seniors and graduate students in their last year of studies from domestic and international populations as well as those from minority and majority backgrounds. All students regardless of their race / ethnic heritage were invited to participate in the survey. To this end, the survey did not seek the participant’s race / ethnic heritage or name.

During the academic year of 2009-2010, the Yellow House Gallery (YHG) hosted four student exhibitions. Those exhibitions dealt with themes of identity, global issues, and world actualities. The gallery structured a board of jurors to make ethical decisions on the selection of artist proposals. The board was composed of YHG staff Ara Michelle Aranguri FAV ’10, Nathalie Jolivert B Arch ’12 and RISD staff members: Anthony Johnson, Claudia Ford, Katherine Scanga and McDonald Wright.

In the Fall of 2009, the board curated the gallery's first juried show: The Wild Wild West show. The Wild Wild West show, coincided with the Office of Multicultural Affairs celebration of First Nations Peoples. This exhibition tackled the issue of Westernization and its impact on different tribes of the world. We exhibited a strong body of art pieces from seven undergraduate and graduate students. The opening reception was well animated by DJ Federman ID ’10. The Wild Wild West show was also the last show Ara Aranguri would coordinate at the YHG before stepping down. In Winter Session, Jensin Wallace Textiles ’11 joined the board.

In Winter Session, we were proud to host Sarah Lee’s first solo exhibition Me”NA”. Sarah Lee, Junior student in the Illustration department, used prints and video films, to express the loss of powerful personality traits when a new language is adopted. Her delicate prints were graphite self-portraits with half-erased English sentences of self-expression in the background. The video shorts were composed of the bold words “confidence”, “intelligence” and “comprehension” in fine black powder. Every time the author pronounced the words, she put emphasis on the wrong syllables and her breath gradually blew away the words.

During Winter Session, the gallery also hosted the Bid for Haiti exhibition, a silent auction to which students donated artwork to raise funds for earthquake relief efforts in Haiti. Through this exhibition, RISD students showed how concerned they were about the situation in Haiti and their willingness to help through creativity. The gallery received and showcased a wide range of artwork from printmaking, painting, photography, jewelry and textiles majors. Over $400.00 was raised.
Finally, When In Mexico, curated by faculty member Winifred Lambrecht, was an opportunity for students from the 2010 Winter Session travel course to Mexico, to exhibit their work on museum design and photography. This show was composed of very rich colorful art pieces. Travel notebooks with interesting written entries and collages of local product labels made this exhibition feel intimate and the trip more accessible to viewers.

The Yellow House Gallery was pleased to present its exhibitions during the year of 2009-2010. From those exhibitions, The Ewing Multicultural Center added to its in-house collection, art pieces from Matthew Flaherty PN’10, Jordan Seaberry PN’11, Affandi Settiawan Photo ’11 and Alexandra Forsyth Photo ’12. We value the connections we have made through those different exhibitions and are looking forward for more collaborations and successful exhibitions in the future.
